

Uppsala Konsert & Kongress

November 8, 8.30-16.30

Bringing you up to date with the latest technologies, applications and clinical research results, Bioscience 2017 will showcase how greater interaction between academia, university hospitals and industry enables research to make the journey from academia to the life sciences industry, where it will help to create new companies as well as new industrial and clinical methods.

Bioscience 2017 will focus on both challenges and opportunities, highlighting how contract research/manufacturing organisations (CROs/CMOs) and other services allow companies to reach targets set for technology, research and production.

Bioscience 2017 will enable you to meet other scientists and companies involved in research aimed at developing new drugs and therapies, progressing the treatment of human and animal diseases.

Who should attend this:

Pharmaceutical companies
Research and Development companies
Academia
CMO
CRO
Service companies

Follow us on Twitter

Organizer:

Partners:

A Member of
The Linde Group

